John Passmore Edwards was born in Blackwater, Cornwall, in 1823 and went on to make a fortune publishing popular technical magazines like the English Mechanic and Building News. He used his fortune to establish hospitals, convalescent homes, institutes, art galleries and museums, as well as libraries in London and Cornwall. Edwards was also a champion of parliamentary reform, a supporter of the Chartist and Temperance movements and involved in campaigns against slavery; he was a notable opponent of Boer War. In the centenary year of the death Dean Evans has produced a comprehensive study of the Passmore Edwards' life, beliefs and legacy, with many illustrations of the buildings he funded.
